

ELKS OF MANY LODGES IN GRAND LODGE MEETING AT ATLANTIC CITY

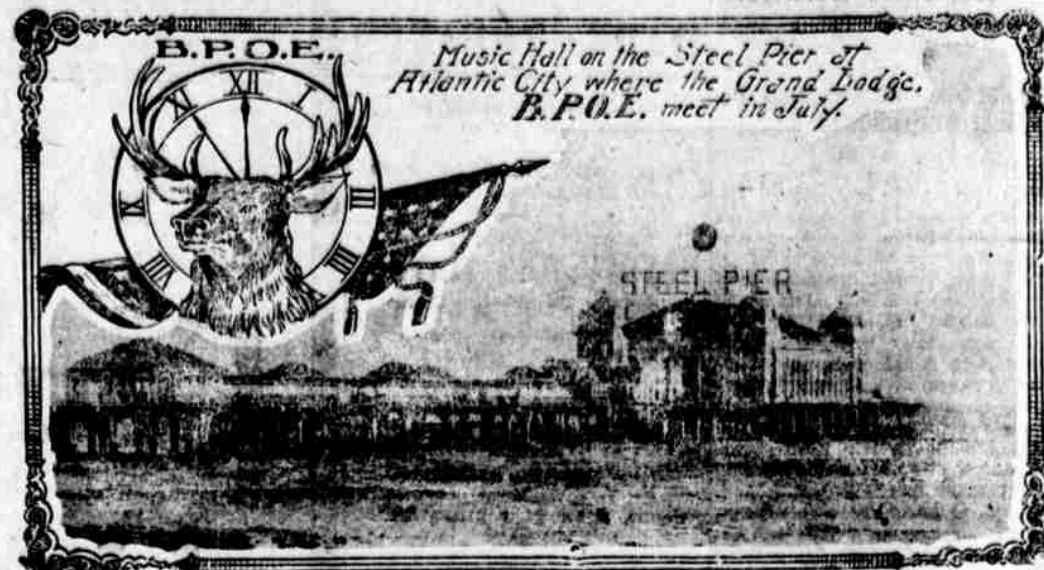

Honolulu Herd Has No Representative at Big Gathering.

Elks from all over the country and many visitors from foreign lands are in attendance at the Grand Lodge meeting which opened yesterday in Atlantic City. It will run for a week, and is one of the most notable events of the year in fraternal circles.

Honolulu has no representative at this session of the grand lodge, and this is a cause for keen regret among the entered herd. J. D. Dougherty was to have gone, but was unable to get away. E. A. Douthett, who has been traveling around on the mainland, also had an idea of attending and would have represented Honolulu lodge, but instead decided to return to Hawaii earlier than he originally intended.

Boston proposes to make a strenuous fight for the 1912 convention of the order. This incurs a battle royal between the New England metropolis and its enthusiastic supporters and the hustling cohorts from Portland, Ore.—a fight of the East against the West.

Portland has raised a fund of $125,000 to secure and to entertain the grand lodge reunion a year hence. Five hundred of the foremost business men of the big Pacific Coast town have gone across the country in one of the most palatial private trains that ever turned a wheel, prepared to spend money with lavish hand in order that the ambition of its residents may be realized.

Samples of the soil, the flora and the products of the favored far-western State constitute an exhibit that is as tempting as has ever been set up for a like purpose.

Boston's Claim. And Boston? Why Boston proposes to fight with every legitimate weapon that may be applied. The Bostonians have the enthusiastic support of thousands of channish New England brethren. Boston was a strong candidate for the big convention a year ago, but withdrew gracefully when Atlantic City promised to prove to Elklodon that it was possible to have a convention and house its members without having hotel rates boosted to outrageous proportions. The fight promises to be a battle royal.

Equally strenuous from present indications will be the contest for the grand exalted rulership. It is a three-cornered melee of ballots with Colonel John P. Sullivan of New Orleans, Charles R. Rasbury of Dallas and Arthur Moreland of New York equally confident of victory.

Elks not representatives are admitted to the "floor" of the grand lodge this year for the first time. Thousands of those who comprise the "herd" have never seen the grand lodge in session. Other thousands have never been nearer to the grand lodge as a body than the gallery. This year they are permitted to occupy so many seats upon the floor of the convention hall as are not required for the delegates.

PUPPY KILLED; CASE IN COURT

Korean's Interpretation of "Clean-Up" Order Gets Him Into Trouble.

The pathetic story of the killing of a two-months old puppy by Ching Sun Chong, a Korean, was aired in police court this morning, before Judge Monsarrat. According to Mrs. Rose Kuwalo, who testified this morning, during the trial of Ching Sun Chong, it was a pretty and happy dog, but unfortunately it was hit in the head with the handle of a hammer by the defendant and died a few hours afterwards.

Mrs. T. S. Choy, the legal owner of the little animal, had Ching Sun Chong arrested yesterday for maliciously killing her dog. She charged the defendant with having deliberately struck the dog.

According to the defendant, who is the landlord of a tenement house, at the corner of Nuananu and Vineyard streets, the little dog has been a nuisance in the building, and Chong was taken to task by the Board of Health. After being told by the board to keep his premises clean, the landlord killed the dog.

At the close of the case, Judge Monsarrat found the defendant guilty and fined him five dollars and costs.

UMPIRE DELIVERS FOURTH STRIKE

While the captains of the different teams here are always getting back at the umpire's decisions, the case is sometimes different on the Coast. The following clipping shows what happened in Cincinnati when one of the captains was not satisfied with the umpire's decision:

CINCINNATI, June 24.—Umpire Klem called a third strike on Cardinal Mowrey, retiring St. Louis in the ninth and checking the rally that threatened to down Cincinnati. Bresnahan protested, and Klem immediately put over a fourth strike, this one on Bresnahan's nose. Now more work for President Lynch.

The encounter was the result of Bresnahan's strong objections to the decisions of Klem behind the bat. St. Louis had made a splendid rally in the ninth, getting four runs and needing but one more to tie the score; two men were down, Evans on third, and Mowrey at bat. Keefe pitched two strikes and Bresnahan objected strenuously to Klem, asserting that the second strike had been a balk.

While Bresnahan was arguing and the batter paying little attention to the pitcher, Keefe put over the third strike, Mowrey was called out, ending the game, 8 to 7 in favor of Cincinnati. Bresnahan made a rush at Umpire Klem, but was met with a stinging right fist on the face.

SENATORS AFTER RECIPROCITY BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—Beginning with Senator Cummins' attack today on the reciprocity measure as legislation unjust to the agricultural interests of the country and concluding with Senator Borah's denunciation as a Republican betrayal of the farming interests, the Senate debate was all antagonistic to the agreement and critical of the President and his methods.

The Senate gave but partial attention to the speeches, although they were among the most important that will be made against the bill. Several times a call of the Senate was demanded. Senator Nelson of Minnesota finally proposed that, as so little attention was given to the subject, the Senate take a recess until November or December.

Senator Cummins, who will continue his speech tomorrow, attacked not only the construction of the reciprocity agreement itself—which, he said, put the whole burden of free trade upon the farmer without giving him any benefits in the guise of reduction of duty on manufactured products—but he also criticized the power exercised by the President to negotiate it and to bring it to the point of a definite agreement between the two countries.

Usurps Congress' Powers.

In doing this, Cummins said, the President had usurped the powers of Congress, and had exceeded the power lodged in him, to deal with foreign nations upon revenue matters. If a reciprocity agreement was to be made with Canada, he said, the original proposal should have come from Congress, instead of through Presidential advances, which had brought the agreement to a point where Congress was assured it could not be changed or amended.

"I know that the day has come for the farmer," declared Cummins, "to be excluded from the benefits of the protective tariff. The decree has been written, it needs only the official signature for the time to begin, to exclude him from the company of the manufacturers of the United States."

Senator Borah's criticism was based on the record of the Republican party as the advocate of protection for the Western farmer. He quoted from Republican platforms, campaign documents, campaign arguments and definitions of policy to show that the abolition of the protection on farm products was a reversal of all Republican policy.

Borah said that both political parties were now striving for the vote of the cities and the support of the press. "Instead of saying both political parties, you should say the Democratic party and the Administration," interjected Bristow. "I am not willing to concede that President Taft, in the crusade in which he is now engaged for free trade in agricultural products, represents the Republican party. He does not represent the majority of the Republican members of the House or Senate, and I believe he does not represent the sentiments of a majority of the Republicans of the country."

Plugged to Protect Farmer.

"The Administration now in control," said Borah, "came into power on a pledge to protect the American market for the American farmer. The time was when the farmer was not disputed with in this chamber that such legislation as this was destructive of his prosperity. Then every Republican in the Senate was his attorney. Now, because he calls in a New York attorney to present his case before the finance committee, he is accused of being the field and companion of the trusts and the big interests."

Borah said the establishment of free trade in agricultural products was either a denial of the principles for which the Republican party had heretofore stood for a "coarse and brutal betrayal of the most loyal constituency the party organization has ever had."

"No page in the political history can equal this betrayal by the Republican party of this great and loyal constituency," he said.

Borah said he sympathized with the press in its desire for relief from the oppressive combination that is said to control the production of print paper. He objected, however, to the attempt to "settle the trust question at the custom-house." He declared that action against a paper trust, if it existed, should be by civil and criminal procedure in the courts.

ELEVEN HOUSES TOPPLE INTO SAN PEDRO HARBOR

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—Eleven houses in San Pedro toppled into the harbor tonight, and another building, a large apartment house, is momentarily in danger of doing the same thing. Through the operations of the government dredger in sucking away the silt from the bank, the foundations under the houses became weakened and all of the inhabitants moved out posthaste. Soon after the buildings began to settle and one by one toppled over into the ocean. Most of them were small affairs occupied by fishermen and their families. The dredger is engaged in deepening the harbor entrance and has taken out much sand and silt from near shore.

Announcement is made by a member of the trustees of Princeton university that Mrs. Russell Sage has added to her previous gift of $298,000 the sum of $65,000.
